

Our Common Health: The Rise of an Integrative Approach to Health Policy and Prevention

Presented by: Jamie Harvie, P. E.

Tuesday, February 4, 2014
The College of St. Scholastica, Somer's Lounge
1200 Kenwood Avenue in Duluth, MN

Registration: 3:30

Presentation: 4:00

Q&A: 5:00-5:30

Social/networking: 5:30-6:00

Jamie Harvie, P. E. is a nationally recognized prevention leader within our healthcare systems and ecological health. He is the Executive Director of the Institute for a Sustainable Future and also consults on primary prevention with agencies including the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency, City of San Francisco, World Health Organization and the Chinese Environmental Protection Agency. He is the author on numerous health and prevention journal articles and is a contributor to the textbook "Integrative Medicine". Jamie founded the Healthy Food in Healthcare Initiative in which he directed a nationwide collaboration of NGO, clinicians and healthcare partners, to create change in healthcare food policy and practice change prevention models. His work has been featured by Time Magazine, USA Today, Minnesota Public Radio, and National Public Radio. He has been awarded the NRDC National Thought Leader award and recognized in "Twenty Most Influential" by Food Service Director Magazine.

At the end of workshop, the participant will be able to:

- Identify healthcare design and operations strategies that promote human, community and ecological health.
- Understand primary prevention oriented provisions of the Affordable Care Act.
- Identify the social determinants of health and their contribution to human health.
- Identify at least one example of medical, nursing and healthcare institutions that have advanced health promoting policies and/or practices in their institutions and/or local and state communities.
- Understand the notion of body burden.
- Identify the relationship and contribution of food systems to climate change.

$5 for students

$10 for TGNAHNA members

$20 for non-members

Drop ins are welcome.

To obtain contact hours, you must attend the full presentation by the speaker and fill out the evaluation form. This program was set up so that no conflict of interest has been identified. If a conflict becomes known, you will be notified at the beginning of this activity.

The nursing education activity is designed to meet the Minnesota Board of Nursing requirements for 2 contact hours. It is the responsibility of each participant to determine if this activity meets his or her requirements for continuing education and the number of contact hours earned.

